

It was a Diamond Jubilee celebration for Ramon Hodge from his loving children

Octavio Hodge, along with his siblings Manuel, Brenda Verna and Minerva wanted to show their love and devotion for the man they consider “The World’s Best Dad” and they did. On Friday night of last week they threw a whopper of a birthday party for father Ramon joined by his wife Leona, who also celebrated twenty-five years of marriage last week. This double celebration was attended by hundred of friends decked out in white, including three of Ramon’s eleven sisters and brothers that still live in Aruba, Hilda, Octavia and Ernesto.

Danny of Jamaica Me Crazy personally made sure that everyone enjoyed a fabulous dinner, and a limbo show plus performance by the Ballet Folklórico Nacional de Aruba provided an entertaining evening for all. Ramon is described as a “Master of all Trades” by his son, Octavio, and worked for many years as an engineer with the Lago Refinery. He was also active in community events such as the San Nicolas Baseball team. As displayed by the spirited attendance by relatives and friends ranging all ages, it is obvious that his lifelong commitment and participation in the community of San Nicolas has won him the respect and love of his family and neighbors. Pabian Ramon on your diamond jubilee, and many more
